

How to Get Matlab

Matlab is now licensed by the campus for all students. You can install it on your own computer if you wish. The licenses and toolboxes are available from <https://software.berkeley.edu/matlab>.

In addition, we have it on all of our labs and server computers, which can be listed via <http://inst.eecs.berkeley.edu/connecting.html#labs>.

277 Soda (Linux) and 199 Cory (Windows) are labs that we suggest. Their cardkeys are automatically enabled for after-hours access.

Here is the general information for students about running Matlab: <https://inst.eecs.berkeley.edu/cgi-bin/pub.cgi?file=matlab.help>

You can get it from the campus and install it on your own systems, and you can run it on our computers using the instructional accounts that you can get from <http://inst.eecs.berkeley.edu/webacct>.
